

From: Bill Wilson
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/20/01 5:27pm
Subject: Microsoft

It appears that Microsoft has come out unscathed again. Being so kind to our school children will probably teach them that if you are big enough, you can get by with murder.

There should at least be a penalty to keep them from doing the same thing again. As soon as the cases are all settled, I am sure they will be back to their old tricks. Why won't there be a penalty that will make Bill Gates think twice before he beats the little guy to death?

W. P. Wilson
4516 Grand Forest Dr.
Schertz TX 78154